Here is the information I promised you by WUC ect.

The first mention of the "Friendship House" in correspondence to the Security Office was a confidential memorandum from Alexander Melbardis in which he stated: "It appears that the center for the Russian criminal element in Munich is the 'Friendship House', Boosstrasse 2, Telephone: 22486." He added that "there are insistent rumors that this group may be connected with the Mikhailov Committee." He said that his information about the "Friendship House" was based primarily on his personal observations and conversations with Pilayev.

In another memorandum dated 17 December 1967 and directed to Mr. Kelley, Melbardis gave more details about the House of Friendship. Following is a copy of that memorandum in its entirety:

"An asylum for the homeless often tends to become a haven for antisocial elements.

"It is regrettable that the House of Friendship has degenerated into such a place of refuge for criminal or shady emigres of various nationalities. In addition to serving as a 'base of operations', this institution has also become a transit point and a center for the local underworld.

"At least two gangs are said to be working out of the Friendship House. The first gang, headed by a professional criminal named Semion MAXIMOV (Monach-The Monk), was partially liquidated in a November raid by Munich detectives. 'The Monk' is now in pretrial custody. The second gang, said to be under the leadership of Genadiy ALEKSEYEV (Ruka, Odnorukiy-The Hand, The One-Armed), another habitual criminal, still operates in close contact with certain inhabitants of the asylum.

"There are unconfirmed rumors to the effect that the group run by 'The Hand' may be involved in a wave of burglaries that has plagued the city for the last two months.

"Unfortunately, this is only part of the picture. The main danger is that there may be a direct connection between the emigre criminal undergroup and Soviet agents. It appears that there is such a link, particularly with operatives of the Mikhailov committee in West Germany, who guide the 'underground' groups known as BUREVESTNIK, SOKOL, DNIPRO, THE FREE COSSACK CIRCLE, FELLOW EMPLOYEES AT LIBERATION and the PATRIOT. The Munich emigre criminal elements seem to be, in many instances, the rank-and-file of the Soviet 'Fifth Column'.

"The following notorious persons have either lived at the House of Friendship, or been in close contact with some of its inhabitants:

Peter KARPATZKY - Post-World War II emigre.*
Nikolai GEORGIAN - Post-world war II emigre;
returned to the USSR.
Mikhail BIBIKOV - World War II emigre; returned to the USSR.
Ivan PANCHENKO - Post-World War II emigre.
Disappeared after February 1956
poison (?) attempt on Col.
Antonov. Returned to the USSR.
Evgheniy PALEKHAIS - Post-World War II emigre; returned to the USSR.
Fedor PODGORNIY - World War II emigre; returned to the USSR.
Boris VINOGRADOV - World War II emigre; returned to the USSR.
Peter MOROZ - World War II emigre. Doubtful person.

Note: * Convicted Soviet agent.

 Suspected of being a Soviet agent

Note: It is perhaps significant that about half of the repatriees listed were recent defectors, the politically most unstable and questionable segment of the emigration.

"It goes without saying that the AFRF asylum enjoys an extremely poor reputation with the German authorities and the press. The November police raid was described in detail by the Muenchener Merkur and the Sueddeutsche Zeitung. Leading emigres are also most critical of the present state of affairs in the House of Friendship.

"You will be kept informed of any new developments."

In a memorandum to the Security Officer dated 14 February 1957, Melbardis gave characteristics of "new" emigres from the USSR who are said to be questionable on moral and political grounds. Most of these emigres live in the House of Friendship or did live there. (See Attachment A.)

On 4 March 1957, Melbardis sent a memorandum to the Security Officer enclosing a list of persons "permanently living in the 'House of Friendship', Boosstrasse 2, Munich." Most of these people seem to be anti-Communist; the list comprises 12 persons, including the manager.

SO-CALLED "WEST" AND "EASTERN" EUROPEAN AND NORTH AMERICAN, LIVING IN GERMANY, THE WESTERN EUROPEAN COUNTRIES OF THE NORTH, AND NORTH AMERICAN.

1. Nikolai GEORGHIAN. Armenian. Came from the East Zone to West Germany in 1952. According to his story, he was an officer of the MGB. He claims to have been connected with a section of Soviet intelligence who had defected to West Germany. He also claims to have been involved in a knifing incident with Friendship House resident, A. Klimenko. Georghian was later expelled from the House. Today his whereabouts are unknown. It is suspected he is now in the East Zone of Germany.
2. Alexandr KLIMENKO. Chechenian. Defected to West Germany in 1952. He claims to have defected after murdering an American prisoner on grounds of jealousy. Burglary was his "trade" in West Germany. After the knifing incident with A. Georghian and after working at a Suber (now working at Radio Liberation), being afraid of Georghian's vengeance, he disappeared. Klimenko's present whereabouts are unknown. While living in the House of Friendship, he spread anti-Soviet propaganda.
3. Nikolai FILIN. Russian. Former MGB man assigned to an execution squad. He wrote about his experiences and about the execution of German Nazis and other victims of the Soviets. His writings were sent to the Voice of America in the United States. Professional addict, alcoholic and dope addict. Was friendly with A. Klimenko and A. Georghian with whom he had been acquainted during his service in the East Zone of Germany. He left the House of Friendship without any cause and disappeared in some unknown direction.
4. Nikolai SCHMIDT. (Real name - Rybak) came from the East Zone of Germany in 1952. Schmidt and A. Klimenko were co-managers of the newspaper Possev, after receiving news of their dismissal from one of the employees. They continued staying in the House of Friendship. A morally degraded and corrupted man. He was later discharged from a Frankfurt ISU for bad conduct. He is now living in Hamburg. There are unconfirmed reports that he may be active in the "SCHOL" group, distributing leaflets and acting as a member's committee.
5. Ivan DRIGANOVICH. Russian. Drinking habit. Fake soldier, fraudulently classified himself as a Soviet veteran. Actually he was a Vlasov veteran, who sells services to anyone who can inspire confidence. Thief and drunkard. Drives a car. He has been engaged in activities along with Y. Boshchikov. The person who is known as Ilya Driganovich is living in Hamburg. He is engaged in various criminal activities because of alcoholism. He is not to be trusted.
6. Michail BELITSKY. Ukrainian. Came from the East Zone to the Germans. He has always written articles for the press. He worked along with Nikolai Klimenko. He is a very good writer. He is a well-known person in the German press. When he came to the House of Friendship, he was engaged in various criminal activities. He is not to be trusted.

suspected of attempting to recruit political emigres from the American-occupied zone. Has conversations with a German emigre who comes to him from the East Zone. He is every reason to believe that he works on orders of Mikhailov's Committee and the KGB.

7. Anatoliy VROMSKIY. Russian. Former worker for the repatriation to the homeland. Morally and politically not trustworthy. He worked together with the Pereian (who fled to the East zone) gathering data on the political emigration. Presently conducting intensive agitation for return to the homeland. Works for the political groups "KURVESHNIK" and "SOKOL". He doesn't conceal his intention to return to the homeland.

8. Vladimir BEREZINSKIY. Is a so-called "post-war emigre". He has engaged in burglary. At the present time he is working in a printing office as a printer. He has tried several times to return to the homeland, but has apparently failed to carry out all his tasks (patriotic activities). He openly declares that he will go in the springtime because "he still has some business to attend to". In view of his political background, he can't be trusted.

9. Konstantin GIKAREV. Osset national. Criminal type who has engaged in theft and has been convicted many times. At present he is engaged in patriotic activities. Morally and politically he cannot be trusted.

10. Nikolai VOYENNYI. Habitual thief, alcoholic and dope addict, recently released from prison. Has been convicted many times. Unverified reports say he has already crossed over into the East Zone.

11. Gennadiy ALEXEYEV. Nickname "Band". By birth, German, but has come from Russia. A criminal with many convictions. At present he is a pro-Soviet propagandist and a regular visitor to Munich dives for shady characters. He is utterly depraved and is not to be trusted.

12. Konstantin BRYANTSEV. Nickname "Kosya Kase". He was in the Dachau concentration camp along with General Mikhailov. After the war he engaged in theft and was convicted several times. He is married to a German woman from the East Zone. In 1953 he personally admitted to the German police in Ludwigsfeld that his wife is a spy for the East Zone. Her relatives have often visited the so-called "Volatoy Foundation House" where Bryantsev lived with his wife. At present his wife is living in Ludwigsfeld. Shady characters are his steady visitors and Bryantsev himself is an expert in buying and selling stolen articles. He is a scoundrel as far as his moral qualities are concerned. He frankly admits having thrown living persons into the furnaces at the Dachau crematorium and has photographs to confirm it. He is by no means trustworthy.

13. Janek SVORODA. A so-called "post-war emigre". Polish but speaks Russian fluently. Has a criminal character, is an alcoholic. He was expelled from the House of Friendship, worked in the Dachau Camp Company in Nuremberg, was dismissed, went to Ludwigsfeld, from where he was again expelled. His present whereabouts are unknown. It is supposed that he is in Hamburg, where many Ukrainians and Czechs from Bavaria are now residing.

14. Sergei BUSHAK. Moravian. Was registered as a "post-war emigre". After the war he took to the highway and was engaged in begging and keeping prostitutes for money from both sides of the border. In the case of "Igorka" and R. Karpachyev he was engaged in similar activities. Inclined to be pro-Soviet. He is a scoundrel and a criminal. He has been returned to the East zone, where he is engaged in selling newspapers and leaflets. Because of his past behavior and his beliefs, he is not trustworthy and should be treated with extreme caution.

SECRET

exists that he has also worked for a group engaged in kidnapping from West Germany. As a blind on the part of the security forces, he either sold or rented his car. Suslin worked along with Viktor delivering returnees to the East Zone and observing places for robbing with thieves operating in Munich.

17. Semen YAKOVLEV. Professional thief previously convicted in Russia. Engaged in burglary while living in Germany. Alcoholic who was expelled for bad conduct from USEP care and expelled from Houses of Friendship in Munich and Solingen. Living presently in Ingolstadt. Cannot be trusted because of his questionable moral and political beliefs.

18. Alexander SHAPOVALOV. According to him, he came from the East Zone of Germany in 1953, allegedly from the tank corps. He was not approved by USEP and was asked to leave the House of Friendship. He then went to Frankfurt/Main to a Guard Company. After an investigation he was discharged as being unreliable and is said to have returned to the home-land at this point. After a long absence (one year) he again appeared in Munich and Kaiserslautern. Being unemployed, he visits the places where many political emigres gather. All his former friends avoid him because of rumors that he has returned from East Germany on a special mission. He is suspected of being politically unreliable.

19. Kozma ZAMEK. Nickname "The Lane". Criminal type engaged in burglary with K. Belytskyi and N. Lunev, primarily thefts of American money here. He is a pro-Soviet type who openly conducted Soviet propaganda and agitation for the return to the homeland. At present he is serving a prison term for robbing an American villa.

20. Nikolai LUNEV. Nickname "The Squint-Eyed". Professional thief. After release from prison in 1956, he was immediately imprisoned again for breaking into the above-mentioned American villa with K. Zamek.

21. Yelentiz FEDORENKO. Nickname "The Long". Registered as a "post-war emigre". USEP care was denied him for his stealing and hooliganism. He has stayed in various "homes". He served in a Guard Company in Frankfurt/Main until discharged. He has been convicted several times for theft. His whereabouts are unknown at present. He is believed to have returned to the homeland.

22. Vladimir GOLENKO. He was a thief previously, having been convicted several times for larceny. He was in prison with former ring-leader, M. Bilakevich, who was once manager of the House of Friendship in Munich. According to his friends, V. Golenko is working and has not engaged in larceny since his release from jail.

23. Nikolai DUBRIK. Nickname "The Dardanellas". Russian. Previously convicted for larceny. Was in England, returning in 1956 to live for a while in the House of Friendship, which was a hangout for all sorts of shady characters. At present he is working at the BMW factory and living in Ludwigsfeld. He says: "I don't engage in political matters," which is to say, "I do nothing but steal."

24. Semen YEVSUYUTKIN. Thief and alcoholic who recently left a sanatorium and often visits the House of Friendship with other criminal types. He has been convicted several times for burglary. Attitude: Pro-Soviet.

SECRET

17. Pyotr KRYKOV. (First name unknown) Professional pickpocket and forger of documents. He recently lived in the House of Friendship but upon his dismissal, he moved to a Munich flop-house.

18. German MAKSIMOV. Nickname "The Monk". Russian. Professional burglar. According to German press, he has been previously convicted for larceny. He was released from prison in the spring of 1956. At present he is being investigated by German legal authorities, accused of armed larceny. He has been a regular visitor of the House of Friendship.

19. Nikolai SAMOHINSKY. Nickname "Blacky". Professional thief. Convicted several times on larceny. At present he is being investigated by German authorities. According to available data, although a thief, he refused to steal from political emigres living in West Germany. Especially B. Vinogradov, P. Karpetsky and A. Guelin asked him (for good remuneration) to steal files and other documents from various political organizations. He justifies his profession on the grounds that he has never had the opportunity to learn any other. His attempts to receive GIP aid and to attend their courses have been unsuccessful. Politically he is not to be suspected for he is a violent enemy of the Soviet system. During the war he fought against the partisans and served in Vlassov's army.

20. Vyacheslav FELIKAYS. Nickname "Signor". Profession: Swindler and forger. Registered as a "post-war emigre". Has stayed in many "homes" and completed many courses. Was in England, Spain, in the French Legion in Morocco and in other colonies. After traveling around quite a bit, he left for the homeland. He has friends in Germany with whom he corresponds. His best friend was considered in Germany as politically unreliable. This friend, A. Kobaykov, was not permitted to go to the U.S. A., so he has immigrated to Brazil instead.

21. Ivan PANCHENKO and his "wife", Ksenya. Came to Germany from the East Zone in 1951 along with soldier, B. Sedakov, who now lives in Brazil. Previously he couldn't be trusted because of his moral and political background. He worked with N. Schmidt in the editor's office of Roshev and after robbing one of the contributors of this newspaper, he came to Munich. Like Schmidt, he has stayed at every "Home" and taken every course, but has failed to find employment. He likes an easy and idle life, and it is thought that perhaps he worked for the Nikhailov Committee. After an attempt to poison a leading figure in the political emigration, he disappeared. His wife, Ksenya Panchenko, was a sister in the East Zone of Germany who works for the Soviet intelligence service. Despite the fact that all traces of this pair were lost, Ksenya Panchenko turned up at the main railroad station in Munich in October and was identified by intelligence workers. She got into a taxi and disappeared. It is believed that perhaps she is in Kaiserslautern, which today provides shelter for many shady personalities.

22. Dmitriy BAUER. Nickname "Uncle Bauer". A specialist in the buying and selling of stolen goods. A frequent visitor of Restaurant "Mateser", a meeting place for the Munich underworld, and a visitor at House of Friendship, where he disposed of many stolen goods. Has recently been engaged in secret propaganda for the return to the homeland. Evidence exists pointing to his return to the East Zone of Germany. He was registered with the German criminal police.

23. Anatoliy MIKHAYLOV. Russian. Former "Home" man. In recent years he became completely absorbed, receiving money for hiding thieves and stolen articles. His best friend is Nikolai Gligorov, "Kolka", the

" who left for the East last year. After German authorities refused assistance, he apparently accepted a job working for so-called "patriotic groups," agitating for return to the homeland. In September 1956 he is thought to have returned to the homeland.

C. Alexander ANOCHIN. Former worker for security authorities. Later was in the Vlassov Army. He owned a restaurant which went bankrupt. He couldn't be trusted and consequently left the city with an American military unit through the office of the CIA (USA). Services to which he had been unsuccessful in obtaining entrance. He spent 20-25 working with the army. He was involved in the fight for the return to the homeland. He is now in the United States. He has no bridge against the Western world. He is now in the United States. He is now in the United States.
